

Good evening to you from CSEA
We're here to remind you today is the day
The day that adults take time to read
The Dr. Seuss books that all children need.

The stories of wockets in pockets and fish
Sneetches on beaches, green eggs in a dish
Yertle the Turtle and Say Can You Say?
Reading books could change a life today

The stories of Lorax and Horton who hears
The Cat in the Hat and the fish on piers
Of McElligot's Pool, and the Big-hearted Moose.
By reading these words you set their minds loose

And once you have loosened the mind of a kid
It's hard to undo the things that you did.
The Places they'll go! The things they will think!
The dreams that will take them right to the brink!

Expanding the thoughts in the littlest heads
Is why Dr. Seuss said the words that he said:
"Unless someone like you cares a whole awful lot,
Nothing is going to get better. It's not."

Through reading the books of one Dr. Seuss
We grow little brains, we turn their minds loose.
A chance to enhance the minds of the kids
By reading them books. That's what we did!

Written by Denise Coughlin 2010. Inspired by Seuss and his many books.